 This building may represent a 17% load factor as a percentage of usable vs rentable. Tenant may pay a percentage of the common area, which is the usable building areas of the corridors and bathrooms, etc.*

To calculate rentable sf, Landlords calculate the total building sf divided by the usable sf to get the load factor. This load factor is then multiplied by the Tenants' usable sf to come up with the total rentable sf. Then rentable sf amount would be multiplied by a rental rate to come up with the Tenants' total annual or monthly rent.

- Example: 17% load factor on 1,000 sf useable, will equal 1,170 sf rentable

Lease Price:

$26 psf + $5 Operating Cost
